

Why vote?

Elections are a critical element of our democracy. Casting a ballot can change the course of our nation, our state, and the communities we live in. Your vote helps elect presidents, our representatives in Congress, our state legislature, city council members, judges, and many others whose decisions have a direct impact on our daily life. Through the ballot box, you also have the power to help create new laws or repeal those you disagree with.

The right to vote has been hard-fought. Women, minorities, and non-landowners were all prohibited from voting earlier in our nation's history. In 1911, women gained the right to vote in California, nine years before women's suffrage was guaranteed in the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Just 50 years ago, President Lyndon Johnson signed the Voting Rights Act, landmark federal legislation designed to remove barriers to participation in the electoral process for African Americans and other racial minorities. Our nation's veterans have also ensured that our democratic principles, including the right to vote, are protected.

By registering to vote and casting a ballot on Election Day you have the power to strengthen our democracy. The California Secretary of State is committed to honoring the legacy of those who have so valiantly fought for our democratic principles, including the right to vote, and have your voice heard in many of the rights and responsibilities of voters and the information you need in order to vote and have your

Provisional Ballot

If your name is not on the voter list at your polling place, you have the right to vote a provisional ballot.

What is a provisional ballot?

A provisional ballot is a regular ballot that is placed in a special envelope prior to being put in the ballot box.

Who casts a provisional ballot?

Provisional ballots are ballots cast by voters who:

- Believe they are registered to vote even though their names are not on the official voter registration list at the polling place.
- Vote by mail but did not receive their ballot or do not have their ballot with them, and instead want to vote at a polling place.

What happens after you cast a provisional ballot?

Your provisional ballot will be counted after elections officials have confirmed that you are registered to vote in that county and you did not already vote in that election. You may vote a provisional ballot at any polling place in the county in which you are registered to vote, however, only the elections contests you are eligible to vote for will be counted.

Depending on the volume of these types of ballots, it takes up to 30 days (28 days for presidential electors and 30 days for all other contests) for county elections officials to verify voter records and determine if ballots have been cast by eligible voters.

How can you check the status of your provisional ballot?

Every voter who casts a provisional ballot has the right to find out from their county elections official if the ballot was counted and, if not, the reason why it was not counted.

GENERAL ELECTION FAQs

Ballot Measures

There are two ways a measure can be placed on the ballot.

- The Legislature has the ability to place constitutional amendments, bond measures, advisory questions, and proposed changes in law on the ballot.
- Any California voter can put an initiative or a referendum on the ballot by following the “How to Qualify an Initiative” process.

A statewide ballot measure can be approved by a majority vote of the people. Certain local ballot measures require approval by a 55% or a two-thirds vote of the electorate.

What is an advisory question?

Proposition 59 is an advisory question. Advisory votes are non-binding. The results will not change the law.

You are advising the Legislature to use their authority to propose and ratify an amendment to the federal Constitution overturning the United States Supreme Court decision in Citizens United v. Federal Election Commission.

Yes – you are asking your elected officials to use their constitutional authority to seek increased regulation of campaign spending and contributions.

No – you would not be asking your elected officials to seek increased regulation of campaign spending and contributions.

What is a legislative initiative amendment?

Proposition 58 is a legislative initiative amendment. A legislative initiative amendment is an amendment to a law that was previously enacted through the initiative process and must be placed on the ballot for a vote of the people before taking effect.

What is a referendum?

Proposition 67 is a referendum. The referendum process is the power of the people to approve or reject new laws passed by the Legislature before they take effect (with the exception of urgency statutes, statutes calling elections, and statutes providing for tax levies or appropriations for usual, current state expenses) through signed petitions. Proponents of the referendum ask for a “no” vote, which stops the new law from going into effect. Opponents of the referendum, who want the law to go into effect as is, ask for a “yes” vote. The law will be enacted unless voters cast more “no” votes than “yes” votes on the referendum.

Information Guide

What state issues will be on the ballot?

There are fourteen citizen generated initiatives and one citizen generated referendum on the General Election Ballot. This is in addition to an advisory question and a constitutional amendment placed on the ballot by the Legislature. Information on all seventeen measures can be found in the Voter Information Guide.

Who writes the arguments for and against the ballot measures that are printed in the Secretary of State’s official Voter Information Guide?

The Secretary of State’s office does not write ballot arguments. Arguments for and against ballot measures are provided by proponents and opponents of the ballot measures. According to law, ballot argument language cannot be changed in any way unless a court orders it to be changed.

If multiple arguments are submitted for or against a measure, the law requires first priority to be given to arguments written by legislators in the case of legislative measures, and arguments written by the proponents of an initiative or referendum in the case of an initiative or referendum. Subsequent priority for all measures goes to bona fide associations of citizens and then to individual voters.

Is It Required to Vote on Every Contest or Proposition on The Ballot?

No, it is not required to vote on every contest or proposition on your ballot. Your ballot will not be invalidated if you do not vote on every contest or every proposition.

Can a voter change their vote after they cast their ballot?

Polling Place Voters: Voters who vote a ballot at the polling place are entitled to a replacement ballot if they make a mistake on their ballot. They must surrender the original ballot to a poll worker who will void it and issue a new one. Once a ballot has been placed in the ballot box, it is considered cast and cannot be changed.

Vote-By-Mail Voters: If a vote-by-mail voter makes a mistake before their ballot has been cast, the voter can surrender their vote-by-mail ballot at the polls (or at their county elections office on or before Election Day) and receive another ballot. If the voter does not have their vote-by-mail ballot to return, the voter will be issued a provisional ballot.

A vote-by-mail ballot is considered cast once it is mailed to or dropped off with the elections official, dropped off at a polling place, or placed in a drop box. Once a vote-by-mail ballot is cast, a voter cannot change their vote or request a new ballot.

What is the deadline to submit a vote-by-mail ballot?

In Person: A voter may personally deliver their vote-by-mail ballot to a polling place or a drop box by the close of polls on November 8.

By Mail: A voter's vote-by mail ballot must be postmarked on or before November 8 and received by their county elections office no later than November 14.

About Candidates

President of the United States

Unlike in most elections, the person who becomes President is not necessarily the candidate who wins the most votes on Election Day. Instead, the election of the President of the United States is a two-step process. First, voters cast ballots on Election Day in each state. In nearly every state, the candidate who gets the most votes wins the "electoral votes" for that state, and gets that number of voters (or "electors") in the "Electoral College."

Second, the "electors" from each of the 50 states gather in December and they vote for President. The person who receives a majority of votes from the "Electoral College" becomes President.

How does the Electoral College work?

Under the "Electoral College" system, each state is assigned a certain number of "votes." There are a total of 538 electoral votes, and the number of votes each state receives is proportional to its size --- the bigger the state's population the more "votes" it gets. The formula for determining the number of votes for each state is simple: each state gets two votes for its two US Senators, and then one more additional vote for each member it has in the House of Representatives. For California, this means we get 55 votes (2 senators and 53 members of the House of Representatives) --- the most of any state.

www.sos.ca.gov/elections/electoral-college

How is a general election different from a primary election in California? Why are two people with the same political party preference sometimes running against each other?

California conducts top-two primaries for constitutional, congressional, and legislative offices. In a June top-two primary all candidates for an office are listed on the same ballot and anyone can vote for any candidate, regardless of political party preference. Only the two candidates who receive the most votes (also known as the top two vote-getters) in each constitutional, congressional, and legislative contest move on to the November general election. The top-two primary does not apply to the contest for United States President and, therefore, there are party-specific ballots for a June primary.

In a November general election in California, there are no party specific ballots. For constitutional, congressional, and legislative office contests, the top two vote-getters from the primary (or three if there was a tie for second place) will appear on the ballot. For United States President and local office contests, there may be more than two candidates on the ballot.

What do party preferences mean when listed with candidates' names on the ballot? What are the qualified political parties and abbreviations of those party names?

A candidate must indicate his or her preference or lack of preference for a qualified political party. If the candidate has a qualified political party preference, that qualified political party will be indicated by the candidate's name on the ballot. If a candidate does not have a qualified political party preference, "Party Preference: None" will be indicated by the candidate's name on the ballot. Similarly, voters who do not have a party preference are known as having "no party preference" or as "NPP" voters.

Abbreviations for the qualified political parties are:

- DEM = Democratic Party
- REP = Republican Party
- AI = American Independent Party
- GRN = Green Party
- LIB = Libertarian Party
- PF = Peace & Freedom Party

Why does one presidential candidate have more than one political party listed with their name?

For presidential candidates, the political party listed with the candidate's name indicates the party (or parties) that have nominated them. One candidate was nominated by two political parties.

Who is running for office?

The Secretary of State's Certified List of Candidates \(PDF\) includes all candidates for United States President, United States Senator, United States House of Representatives, State Senator, and State Assemblymember who are up for election. The Certified List of Presidential Write-In Candidates \(PDF\) lists all the candidates running for United States President as write-in candidates.

County elections officials provide certified lists of candidates for local contests such as mayor and sheriff.

Information about candidates for United States Senator is available in the Secretary of State's Voter Information Guide. Information about candidates for United States President are only available in the online version of Secretary of State's Voter Information Guide due to the timing of the party nominations and the preparation of the Guide.

Information about candidates for United States House of Representatives, State Senator, and State Assemblymember is available through county elections offices and your county's sample ballot booklet.

About Election Results Website

Will the unofficial election results change after Election Night? When will all of the election results be final?

Yes, election results will change throughout the canvass period as vote-by-mail ballots, provisional ballots, and other ballots are processed. Depending on the volume of these types of ballots, it may take up to 30 days (28 days for presidential electors and 30 days for all other contests) for county elections officials to verify voter records and determine if ballots have been cast by eligible voters. The frequency of updated results will vary based on the size of each county and the process each county elections office uses to tally and report votes.

County elections officials must report their final results to the Secretary of State for presidential electors by December 6 and all other offices by December 9. The Secretary of State will certify the results of the presidential electors to the Governor by December 10 and will certify the results of all other offices by December 16.

What qualifies as "a close contest" for purposes of the Secretary of State's election results website?

For people interested in watching contests with particularly tight margins, the Secretary of State's website includes a "close contest" feature. As election results come in, this page will list all contests in which there is less than a two percent difference between first and second place for candidates or between "yes" and "no" votes for ballot measures. Election results will change throughout the 30-day canvass period (28 days for presidential electors and 30 days for all other contests) as vote-by-mail ballots, provisional ballots, and other ballots are tallied.

On Election Night: Why have some counties not reported any results immediately after the polls close?

State law requires county elections officials to send their first batch of results to the Secretary of State's office no more than two hours after they begin tallying votes after polls close on Election Day. Each of the 58 county elections offices processes ballots differently, and the distances poll workers must travel from polling places to county offices vary greatly. County elections officials continue to report results periodically on Election Night until all precinct vote totals have been reported. County elections officials will continue to count ballots for up to 30 days (28 days for presidential electors and 30 days for all other contests) after Election Day.

On Election Night: Why do some counties show no precincts have reported, yet some votes have been counted?

The first election results are typically ballots received before Election Day. Military and overseas voters may cast ballots up to 60 days before Election Day and vote-by-mail voters may begin voting 29 days before Election Day. County elections officials may begin opening vote-by-mail ballot envelopes up to ten business days before Election Day, but those results cannot be accessed or shared with the public until all polls close on Election Day.

Many county elections officials choose to tally and report these early voted ballots before results come in from precincts, which are sometimes far away from county headquarters. Early voted ballots simply appear as raw vote totals because, in this initial stage, the ballots are not attributed to individual precincts.

On Election Night: Why do some contests show a high percentage of precincts reporting, yet the number of votes continues to change?

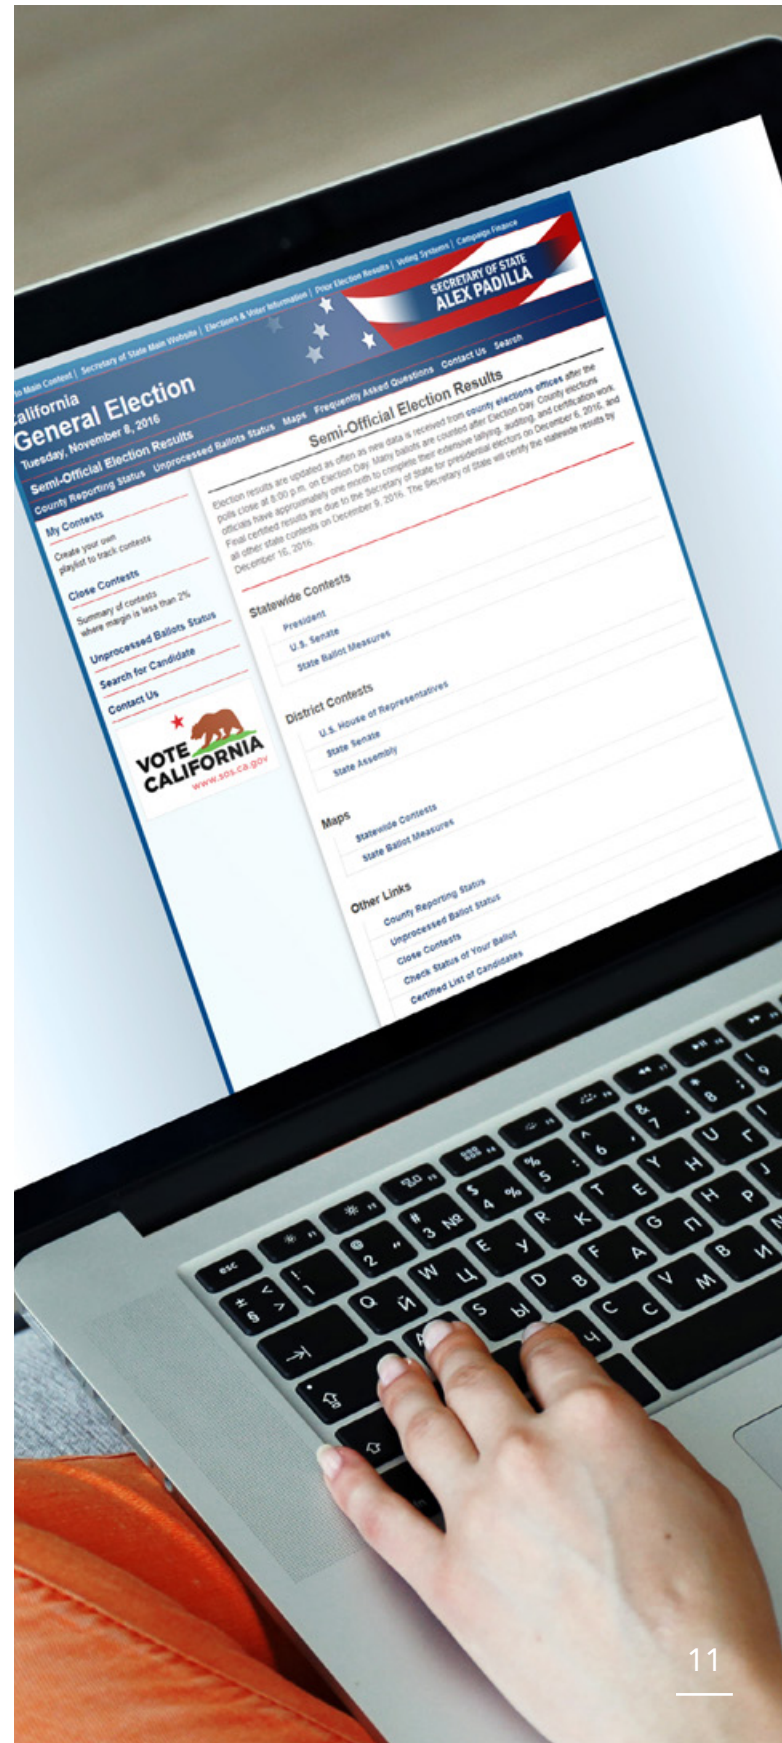

Some counties will show an entire precinct as having reported even if only one ballot from that precinct has been counted. This is why the website specifically notes the data is from precincts “partially reporting.” Once a county submits its final ballot-count report for Election Night, “SF” for Semi-Final will be noted in the Report Type column. Election Night results can be viewed as a snapshot in time here.

Election results will change throughout the 30-day canvass period (28 days for presidential electors and 30 days for all other contests) as vote-by-mail ballots, provisional ballots, and other ballots are tallied.

When are vote-by-mail ballots counted?

Vote-by-mail ballots that are received by county elections officials before Election Day are typically counted on Election Day. Many more vote-by-mail ballots are dropped off at polling places, drop box locations, or arrive at county elections offices on Election Day. A vote-by-mail ballot is to be counted if received in the county elections office no later than three days after the election and postmarked on or before Election Day. Depending on the volume of these types of ballots, it takes up to 30 days (28 days for presidential electors and 30 days for all other contests) for county elections officials to verify voter records and determine if ballots have been cast by eligible voters. The frequency of updated results will vary based on the size of each county and the process each local elections office uses to tally and report votes.

All vote-by-mail ballots that county elections officials determine to be valid and cast by eligible voters are counted and included in the official election results, which will be published by the Secretary of State by December 16.

Military and Overseas Voters

Military and overseas voters are United States citizens who are members of the Uniformed Services (on active duty) and their eligible dependents, members of the Merchant Marine and their eligible dependents, commissioned corps of the Public Health Service, commissioned corps of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, or United States citizens residing outside the United States. To apply to register to vote, receive your elections materials, and vote, you must apply for a special absentee ballot by registering online at www.RegisterToVote.ca.gov or by visiting Federal Voting Assistance Program and filling out the Federal Post Card Application \(PDF\).

Voting Options for College Students

As a Californian living away from home while attending a college, trade school or technical school, you may choose to register to vote using your home away from home address you use while at school or your traditional home address.

Choosing which address to use when you register to vote is a personal decision. Whatever you decide, you may not register to vote in two places during the same election cycle.

Voting While Living Abroad

If you are a student living temporarily outside the United States, you can register to vote and apply to vote by mail by registering online at www.RegisterToVote.ca.gov or by visiting Federal Voting Assistance Program and using the Federal Post Card Application \(PDF\) that is used by all other Californians who are living abroad.

Are You Already Registered to Vote?

To find out if you are currently registered to vote, visit My Voter Status to check status of your voter registration at www.voterstatus.sos.ca.gov.

When to Re-Register to Vote

You need to re-register to vote when:

- You move to a new permanent residence,
- You change your name, or
- You change your political party choice.

As a California voter, be aware that local elections in some areas are held on dates that do not coincide with statewide election dates. The 15-day close of registration deadline for these local elections varies depending on the actual date of the election.
